A Word About Binder Twine

We have received our car of STANDARD BINDER TWINE

This year the Farm Journals and Magazines have devoted quite a great deal of space in advising farmers to use Manilla Binder Twine instead of Standard, stating that the manufacturers of Standard Twine did not have the material to make first class Standard Twine on account of scarcity of the raw material, therefore necessitating the taking of the best fibre to make rope and using the refuse for the Standard Twine, which of course makes an inferior grade of Twine.

The STANDARD Twine we have, manufactured by the International Harvester Company, is made all of long fibre, and is positively first quality.

We have also a smaller quantity of cheap twine made of short fibre, for those of our customers who prefer to buy a cheaper Twine.

Our STANDARD Twine however, will cost you but 50c. per hundred more than the short fibre Twine, which amount is more than made up in time and labor saved over using the inferior quality.

One carload of Binders and Mowers has just reached us and another will arrive next week. If you have not already placed your order with us for your Farm Machinery there is still time to do so.

COUNCIL HOLDS JUNE MEETING

Gettysburg Town Council Discusses Various Matters of Public Interest. Hack License Matters Declared Unsatisfactory.

The June meeting of the Gettysburg Town Council was held Tuesday evening in the Council chamber in the engine house and a number of matters were considered by the councilmen, all of whom, with the exception of Mr. Butt, were present.

Charles Beck appeared before Council to offer some red shale for filling the streets. The offer was accepted.

John E. Pitzer complained to Council of method of taxing battlefield vehicles. Councilmen were of the opinion that it was too late to make any change now for this summer. Councilman Kitzmiller suggested taxing the horses instead of the vehicles but others objected to this and no action was taken.

Dr. Hudson appeared before Council to complain of height of crossing between his property and that of Dennis Twomey, claiming that it was built a foot too high and was "worse than any place in Cumberland township." Dr. Hudson's statement was followed by considerable discussion but no action was taken. Mr. Tawney of the Highway Committee said that he had given no instructions to build the crossing at anything but the uniform grade. Dr. Hudson also complained of the position of a light pole on Hanover street. No action was taken.

Market Master Miller reported collections of $53.50 and Burgess Holtzworth of $75.50 both of whose reports were accepted. The treasurer's report showed a balance in the general fund of $262.22 and in the special fund of $138.35. The auditors' report was received and referred to the finance committee for inspection.

The ordinance ordaining the alley South of East Middle street was passed finally.

Councilman Shealer asked for a light in the center of the second square on Chambersburg street especially during the Summer months. Council took no action.

The Board of Health asked for the second installment of the annual appropriation. An order of $50.00 was granted.

Complaint was again made regarding the lighting of the town and the Light Committee was instructed to order Light Company to attend to trimming of trees under the supervision of the Council. There was also some complaint about the placing of some of the Tungsten lights and of the condition of some of the lamps.

Councilman Armor reported that the police registry system had been out of service for several months though no report of it had been made. It was decided that necessary repairs be made.

The visit of Engineer Pratt to Gettysburg was told of by Mr. Tawney who stated that Mr. Pratt explained satisfactorily apparent errors in the grade. The marker at the college campus was ordered lowered about six inches but no other changes were made. Drainage and other things were taken into consideration when the grade was given and for this reason the grade at some places is all right though it does not appear so to the naked eye.

Secretary Kitzmiller reported the tax duplicate completed for 1910. The duplicate amounts to $6388.39 general tax and $3547.08 special tax, a total of $9935.47. Last year's total was $9902.46.

BISHOP AT THE COMMENCEMENT

Seven Graduates of St. Francis Xavier's School Receive Diplomas. Numbers by the Pupils. Good Cantata Given.

Before a large audience of parents and friends the annual commencement exercises of St. Francis Xavier's School were held on Tuesday evening in Xavier Hall which had been prettily decorated with flowers, flags and streamers for the event.

As in other years the large number of pupils taking part showed the result of the thorough and careful training given them by the Sisters in charge of the parochial schools and the exercises of the evening were a credit to the institution and those having it under their supervision.

Rt. Rev. John W. Shanahan, Bishop of the Diocese of Harrisburg was present at the commencement exercises and made the address of the evening at the conclusion of the entertainment program. His address contained some wholesome advice to the seven graduates and to all in the hall.

The Citizens' Band furnished the music for the evening's program and after their first selection Miss Anna Eckenrode made the address of welcome to the Bishop, a large number of girls being grouped on the stage and following Miss Eckenrode's speech with the welcome song.

A piano duet by Helen Stock and Edna Zincand received generous applause and Clarence J. Breighner delivered the salutatory. A well given chorus, "Creep Mouse," greatly pleased the audience and "The Message of the Rainbow" by the Senior girls showed the result of a great deal of careful training.

Other numbers of the first portion of the program were a chorus "We'll Stand by the Flag" by the intermediate boys; a piano trio by Ruth Strausbaugh, Helen Stock and Gertrude Slonaker; a chorus "Come Rise with the Lark" by the vocal class and the "Magnificat" by the Senior girls.

The feature of the evening's entertainment was an elaborate cantata "Cinderella in Flowerland" in which the ever popular story of Cinderella was told most charmingly with almost all the characters in the guise of flowers, butterflies, bees etc.

The costumes were beautiful and the stage effects most pleasing. The little girls and boys taking part all did remarkably well and, with the pretty dresses and hats, made a number of delightful scenes. Among the most pleasing of these was the May Day Ball in which several pretty dances played a prominent part and in which the drilling of the girls and boys was especially good. Grace Ramer made an ideal Cinderella while Simon Stock took the part of the prince very well. The "two hateful sisters" were depicted by Gertrude Slonaker and Helen Stock while Ralph Redding also deserves mention. The bee and butterflies who took Cinderella to the ball made a big hit with the audience. The affair was decidedly creditable throughout and was without doubt the best feature of this year's exercises.

After the valedictory by Miss Zita Ramer, Rev. Fr. T. W. Hayes presented diplomas to seven graduates of the school, handing the diplomas to Bishop Shanahan who then gave them to the graduates, Clarence J. Breighner, Myrtle I. Culp, Anna C. Eckenrode, Zita A. Ramer, Florence C. Redding, Ivey R. Strasbaugh, Ellen F. Thomas.

The address by Bishop Shanahan concluded the exercises of the evening. The Bishop spoke of the necessity of combining the religious and intellectual training in the class room and school if best results and high ideals would be attained.

DR. SURFACE IS CLEARED

Adams County Fruit Growers Interested in Trial of Head of Department of Zoology. Recommending More Care.

Adams County fruit growers will be interested to know that State Zoologist H. A. Surface has been absolved from any intention to wrong the State of Pennsylvania by employing State apparatus, supplies or labor for his own profit on his farm near Mechanicsburg which he used for experimental purposes. He has, however, been criticised for failing to take the precautions he should and as a result of the disclosures made at his hearing some time ago, all such work had been formerly ordered to stop.

The announcement of the zoologist's vindication of the charges filed against him by Alfred Satterthwait of Chester county, who was his assistant, was made at the Capitol while Dr. Surface and his orchard demonstrators were in session and was well received.

Governor Stuart himself gave out the findings of Secretary of Agriculture N. B. Critchfield, who had sat as judge in the spring to hear the testimony on the charges made last winter by Satterthwait. In doing so he said informally that Dr. Surface was doing good work for the State and that while the testimony showed him not to have been as discreet as he should have been, there was no evidence of any criminal intent.

On account of the inclement weather on Sunday evening the Children's Day service in the Reformed church was not as largely attended as usual, although a great many people were present. The program entitled "Faithful and True," was well rendered by the entire school. The Primary Department under the supervision of Miss Rosa Bubb and Mrs. Miller had been especially well drilled. The music, dialogues and recitations were excellent. A solo entitled "The Joy of Hope" by Miss Nora Bubb and a recitation entitled, "The Cup of Blessing" by Master Walter Baughman were some of the special features.

C. K. Hamilton Proposes to Fly From New York to Philadelphia.

AFTER FLYING RECORDS

Two Long Distance Flights Are Under Way.

Philadelphia, June 8.—While preparations are under way for the biplane flight of Charles K. Hamilton on Saturday from New York to this city and return, the members of the Aero Club of Pennsylvania are busily engaged in making preparations for another great flight in which Philadelphians will participate, an aeroplane race from New York to Washington.

HENRY M. NEELY, representing the Aero club, was in Washington conferring with representatives from New York, Washington and Baltimore. When Mr. Neely returned he announced that plans for the race had been made and that it had been decided to offer a purse of $20,000, the race to be open to all rather than a single flight demonstration. Each of the four cities will divide the expenses of the race between them.

JAILED ON MARRIAGE SWINDLING CHARGE

Authorities Say Man Used Wife's Picture to Obtain Money.

Lancaster, Pa., June 8. — David H. Hartman, about twenty-five years of age, of East Petersburg, a little village near here, was held under $1000 bail for trial in the United States district court on a charge of having used the mails to defraud. The arrest was made by Postoffice Inspector Shoenberg and Deputy United States Marshal Thomas, both of Philadelphia. With the arrest of Hartman the authorities declare they have broken up one of the most far-reaching matrimonial swindles in recent years.

Hartman, who is a boy in appearance, advertised far and wide, the authorities allege, that a certain Catharine L. Hartman, of East Petersburg, wanted a husband. The replies came thick and fast and the prospective wooers were mulcted for sums ranging from $3 to $15.

The field covered a dozen states, and to inquirers Hartman sent a photograph of his wife, who, it is alleged, can neither read nor write. The postoffice inspector states that Hartman admitted having gotten into the matrimonial game after a relative had married through this medium.

Leaped Through Windows and Finally Fell Into a Cellar.

Newburgh, N. Y., June 8.—The bull in a china shop was outdone in Newburgh by a doe in a drug store. The deer, two years old and weighing about 150 pounds, ran wild through the principal streets of the city, then leaped through a plate glass window in the store of Ennis' pharmacy and then through a plate glass mirror that stood at the end of the main aisle in the store. The anmal turned, retraced its steps and leaped through the same opening in the window by which it came in. Cut and bleeding from a dozen wounds, the doe crossed Broadway to a place where improvements were being made. It leaped the boards in front, about five feet in height, and fell between the iron girders to the cellar, twelve feet below.

Dr. Willett Kidd, assistant chief game protector, secured the animal and had it removed to a barn, where it will be kept until recovered from ts injuries, and then released. The deer made sad havoc in the drug store.

As a result of the heavy freeze of last December it is estimated that 10,000 cars of oranges were damaged in southern California. This is about one-third of the annual output and will constitute a very heavy loss to the growers. Where the fruit was not entirely ruined its quality was so injured that it not only will not pay for the expense of marketing, but tends to seriously demoralize the prices for good stuff.

SCORES KILLED BY EARTHQUAKE

Territory East of Naples Scene of Disaster.

TOWNS ARE SHAKEN DOWN

King and Queen Go to Scene of Disaster—American Clergymen Mobbed by Panic Stricken Natives.

Naples, June 8.—An earthquake of unusual intensity was experienced throughout southern Italy, including the island of Sicily. It is believed that thirty-seven or more people were killed and that property losses will be heavy.

The shock appears to have spent its force chiefly in the province of Avellino, in Central Campania, east of Naples. The village of Calitri, of about 8000 inhabitants, suffered the most. One report has it that half of the town was destroyed.

Fatalities are reported at San Sossio, Chianche, Castel Baronia and San Sele.

King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena, upon receiving word of the suffering, left Rome on a special train for the scene, and soldiers and medical corps were dispatched to render first aid. It was announced that the government had called upon parliament for an appropriation of $100,000 for use among the afflicted. The latest report received here told of five deaths at San Sele, in the province of Potenza.

A report received from Avellino described the narrow escape from death at the hands of a superstitious mob of a party of American clergymen who happened to be in the province when the earthquake occurred. Some of the panic stricken populace believed that the calamity was due to the presence of the clergymen, and attacked the latter with the avowed purpose of hanging them. The police rescued the ministers from the mob.

COMET ADDS TO FEAR

Sulphur Waters and Gases Released by Shock Cause More Deaths.

Avellino, Italy, June 8.—The province of Avellino bore much of the earthquake that was felt throughout southern Italy.

In this city little harm was done, and the only death reported was that of an old man who died of fright.

Reports from villages throughout the province are much more grave. Twenty people are reported killed at Calitri. The situation there is distressing.

Ten persons are said to have met death at San Sossio, where the sulphur waters flooded the vicinity. Noxious gases arose.

At Chianche a house fell, burying and killing a man.

One person was killed and several were injured at Castellbaronia. Calabritto was badly damaged.

The town was aroused by the shaking of walls, the rattling of furniture and the falling of plaster. In a moment panic seized the 20,000 inhabitants. Half clad men, women and children fled from their homes. Recently there was a prediction that the approach of Halley's comet portended the end of the world.

The authorities could not stay the rush. The wildest confusion prevailed. In the square hundreds threw themselves upon their faces and implored the mercy of the almighty. Then religious fervor found expression in processions to the shrine of St. Andrew, the protector of the town. Others climbed to the sanctuary on Monte Vergine.

GOLDWIN SMITH DEAD

Famous Historian Dies In Toronto, Aged 87 Years.

Toronto, June 8. — Goldwin Smith, the famous author and historian, died at the age of eighty-seven. He had been ill many months.

Goldwin Smith was born at Reading in Berkshire, England, in 1823. He was educated at Eton and Oxford. Elected a fellow of the University college in 1847, he devoted some time to tutoring and was called to the bar at Lincoln's Inn in 1850. He never practiced law, however, but gave his first public efforts to university reform, serving as assistant secretary to the second Oxford commission, through whose efforts important changes were made in the university system.

His historical writings are voluminous, among them being: "The Empire," "The Political Destiny of Canada," "History of the United States," "Lectures on Modern History," "Dismembership No Remedy" and "Essays on Questions of the Day."

'Tis plain he never helped clean house

When women take men by the neck
And make them big bills pay.

CROSSING EMBDEN, TOULOUSE AND OTHER GEESE.

Whenever you see a gander on the green there rises to your lips that old question, "Goosey, goosey, gander, where do you wander?"

Well, if you ever mate a White Embden gander and a Gray Toulouse goose and raise the green gosling rubbernecks to the age of the original of our picture (seven months) when you take a birdseye view of the tender offspring you will wonder where the shape and style of the old gander and goose went, for the only resemblance you'll see will be in the white and gray markings. Nevertheless it's a good cross for market purposes.

Both of these big breeds run to fat, which is shown by the dewlap under the chin and the abdomen dragging on the ground.

The Toulouse, too, is rather flabby and coarse of flesh. But, strange to relate, by this cross you get a fowl of graceful lines and finer, firmer fibered flesh.

This makes a more popular fowl, for market buyers aren't after goose grease, and you can imagine there's grease to burn when the gander and goose of these breeds weigh twenty and eighteen pounds respectively.

The other geese mostly used for commercial purposes are Gray African, White and Brown Chinese and the Canadian or wild. These are much different from the Toulouse and Embden, the Gray African only equaling them in size, the African and Chinese having big knobs on their heads and the Canadian being a sort of missing link between the duck and goose.

Good crosses are made by mating Canadian or Embden gander with African, and Embden gander with White China.

Geese should only be crossed for market purposes, and pure bred fowls should only be mated. Such offspring are called mongrels and mules. Mules do not breed, and those who confidently expect to breed something wonderful from their mixed geese seldom get eggs to set, and when such an exception occurs the eggs are invariably infertile.

FOUGHT CATARRH FOR 20 YEARS

Here is a letter that we sincerely ask every reader of the Gettysburg Times to read. If you suffer from catarrrh or any nose, throat or lung ailment, read it over twice, and then consider if you can afford to ignore a prescription with the healing virtue of Hyomei (pronounce it High-o-me):

Booth's Hyomei Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Gentlemen—"I suffered terribly with catarrh in the head for twenty years, and I tried many prescriptions, but never found relief. I have used Hyomei for two weeks and find it the best preparation I have ever used for catarrh. Every cold I would catch seemed to go to my throat, and I had to use gargles for days at a time. Now when I catch a cold in the throat I use the Hyomei inhaler and this soreness disappears over night. Hyomei has put me on the good road to getting rid of my catarrh, and if you want to use this letter to publish in your advertising, do so. Perhaps it will help some other sufferer—W. K. One had Face Covered with Itching Eruption—Eyesight was Affected—Raw, Itching Humor Spread Over the Other from Head to Feet in a Single Day—Dreadful

SKIN-TORTURES YIELD TO EASY TREATMENT

"In 1907 my face broke out in a mass of itching sores which finally affected my eyesight. I tried several highly recommended salves that cost one dollar an ounce, but to no avail. A friend of mine urged me to try Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment as he was sure of good results from his own experience. I used the Cuticura Ointment for about six weeks, after washing thoroughly with the Cuticura Soap. My face is in perfect health now which I owe to the Cuticura Remedies. I shall always stand by them as one of the greatest blessings to the suffering thousands. Arthur D. Gridley, 532 Dean St., Brooklyn, N. Y., Apr. 9, 1909."

"In the middle of the night of March 30th I woke up with a burning itch in my two hands and I felt as if I could pull them apart. In the morning the itching had got to my chest and during that day it spread all over my body. I was red and raw from the top of my head to the soles of my feet and I was in continual agony from the itching. I could neither lie down nor sit up. I happened to see about Cuticura Remedies and I thought I would give them a trial. I took a good bath with the Cuticura Soap and used the Cuticura Ointment. I put it on from my head down to my feet and then went to bed. On the first of April I felt like a new man. The itching was almost gone. I continued with the Cuticura Soap and Ointment and during that day the itching completely left me. Frank Gridley, 325 E. 43rd St., New York City, Apr. 27, '09."

ROOSEVELT GIVES OXFORD LECTURE

Emphasized the Need of Curing Political Ills.

RECEPTION IN TOWN HALL

Receives Honorary Degree of Doctor of Civil Law Before Natoble Assemblage.

Oxford, Eng., June 8.—Former President Roosevelt was the guest of Oxford. He delivered the Romanes lecture at the University of Oxford, and the university conferred upon him the honorary degree of doctor of civil law.

Colonel Roosevelt's subject was "Biological Analogies of History." It was heard by a large audience of noted scholars, who applauded the lecturer at many points.

Colonel Roosevelt's voice, despite the care he has taken since his arrival in England, failed him after a time and he was obliged to leave unread the latter part of his lecture.

The lecture and the conferment constituted the great feature of the day, but it did not complete the program, which was about as crowded as any that the distinguished American has undertaken in his European travels.

Oxford was glas to see the former president and made the fact known. First there was a reception given by the mayor of the corporation at the town hall. The auditorium was filled to its limits, and when the guests appeared the audience joined in singing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

From the town hall Colonel Roosevelt made hurried visits to the leading colleges and to other places of historic interest. He was entertained at luncheon by the American club, leaving soon afterward for the famous old Sheldonian theater for his lecture and the ceremonies that added a D. C. L. to the other honorary titles that have been bestowed upon him.

Warning to Nations.

Colonel Roosevelt emphasized in his lecture the need of curing the political ills of nations, and he touched again on the British control of Egypt. This latter subject had been looked for expectantly, but his remarks had nothing of the stirring tone that caused a sensation in the Guildhall audience in London.

Drawing analogies from the biology of prehistoric ages he touched upon the civilizations of succeeding centuries, dwelling on the rise and fall of the Roman empire and the Dutch republic and the gfireatness of the British empire. Upon this historical basis he built up warnings to the British and American people.

The greatest enemies of nations, he declared, are those within, not those without. It was thus that Rome fell, and it was against luxuriousness and evil within, he said, that England and the United States must guard.

"Free people can escape being mastered by others," he asserted, "only by being able to master themselves."

Again he said:

"Privilege should not be tolerated because it is to the advantage of a minority, nor yet because it is to the advantage of a majority. No doctrinaire theories of vested rights or freedom of contract can stand in the way of cutting out abuses from the body politic."

Of the Egyptian situation he said:

"No hard and fast rule can be drawn as applying to all alien races, because they differ from one another far more widely than they differ from us. But there are one or two rules which must not be forgotten. In the long run there can be no justification for one race managing or controlling another unless the management and control are exercised in the interest and for the benefit of that other race. This is what our people have in the main done, and must continue in the future in even greater degree to do, in India, in Egypt and the Philippines alike."

Of race suicide his most striking declaration was:

"A most ominous sign is the diminution in the birth rate now shared by most of the civilized nations of central and western Europe, of America and Australia; a diminution so great that if it continues for the next century for the rate which has obtained for the last twenty-five years, all the more highly civilized peoples will be stationary or else have begun to go backward in population, while many of them will have already gone very far backward."

LORIMER BRIBERY CHARGE IN SENATE

Receives Complaint Against Method of His Election.

Washington, June 8.—The formal charges against Senator William Lorimer, of Illinois, were laid before the senate by his colleague, Senator Cullom.

The preceeding was the presentation of a memorial by Clifford W. Barnes, of Chicago, president of the Illinois Legislative Voters' League, embodying the charges of bribery of members of the Illinois legislature to obtain the election of Lorimer as senator.

The memorial was read only in part, and was referred without comment to the committee on privileges and elections.

The charges are those which are under investigation now in Illinois, where it has been charged that Democratic legislators were paid large sums to vote for Lorimer.

There were few people in the senate chamber or in the galleries, in marked contrast with the scene of intense excitement when Senator Lorimer made his bitter speech ten days ago. He himself was not present.

The Barnes memorial is a long document, embodying the confessions of White and Holstlaw that they were bribed to vote for Lorimer; the bribery indictment against Lee O'Neil Browne, and otherwise summarizes the allegations as affecting Lorimer's election.

This memorial now places formal charges before the committee and a basis of action, which it has not had before.

PARR'S REWARD

May Get $100,000 For Exposing Sugar Frauds.

Washington, June 8.—Richard Parr, the officer of the New York custom house who unearthed the gigantic frauds committed by the American Sugar Refining company, will get his reward from the government in a short time. Through Parr the government recovered almost $3,000,000. His reward is likely to be close to $100,000.

The Parr case has been hanging fire here for months. Under the law he presented a claim to a moiety of the amount recovered through his discoveries. It was possible under a liberal construction of the law for Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh to have given Parr perhaps as much as $1,500,000. Mr. MacVeagh, and Mr. Parr also, his friends say, never considered such a reward as that, and the former decided to submit the whole question to Attorney General Wickersham. Mr. Wickersham has gone over the case within the last few days and is about ready to give out his decision.

While $100,000 is regarded as a big reward, it was recalled here that Parr is said to have had an offer of that much from the sugar trust if he would "disappear." Such a sum is to be granted, too, because of the expected beneficial effect upon the government service.

WANTS RAIL BILL IN EFFECT AT ONCE

President Sends Special Message to Congress.

BILL IN CONFEREES' HANDS

House Democrats Join Regulars and Defeat Attempt of Insurgents to Agree to Senate Amendments.

Washington, June 8.—To carry out the provisions of his agreement with the railroads, and to make that treaty airtight, President Taft sent a special message to congress on the railroad bill.

As the treaty stands, railroads are to withdraw all recent increases in rates and submit new rates to the interstate commerce commission.

The bill as it stands does not take effect until sixty days after its passage.

The commission would not have jurisdiction during that period. This leaves matters so that the railroads or some of them, might file new rates at once, which would stand until set aside by the commission.

The president, therefore, advises that the bill be made to take immediate effect.

The President's Message.

Following is the text of the president's special message:

"A recent effort by a large number of railroad companies to increase the rates for interstate transportation of persons and property caused me to direct the attorney general to bring a suit to secure from the United States court in Missouri an injunction restraining the operation of such increased rates during the pendency of the proceeding.

"This action led to a conference with the representatives of the railroad companies so enjoined, and the agreement by each of them to withdraw the proposed increases of rates effective on or after June 1 and not to file any further attempted increases until after the enactment into law of the pending bill to amend the interstate commerce act, or the adjournment of the congress; with the further understanding that upon the enactment of such law each would submit to the determination of the interstate commerce commission the question of the reasonableness of all increases that each might thereafter propose.

Early Action Important.

"It is now hoped that all of the other railroad companies will take like action. In order, however, that each may have the benefit of a speedy determination of the question whether or not its proposed increases in rates are justifiable, provision should be made by congress to vest the interstate commerce commission with jurisdiction over such questions as soon as possible.

"In the senate amendment to section 15 of the act to regulate commerce contained in H. R. 17,536, the interstate commerce commission is empowered, immediately upon the filing of a proposed increase in rates, of its own motion, or upin complaint, to enter upon an investigation and determination of the justice and reasonableness of such increases, and, in case it deems it expedient, to suspend the operation thereof for a pedior specified in the section to enable it to complete such investigation. That bill, however, provides that the act shall take effect and be in force only from and after the expiration of sixty days after its passage.

Could Raise Rates at Once.

"This provision, if allowed to remain in the bill, would enable carriers, between the time of enactment of the bill and the time of its taking effect, to file increases in rates which would become effective at the expiration of thirty days and remain in effect and be collected from the public during the pendency of proceedings to review them, whereas if the bill be made to take effect immediately such investigation will have to be made before the public is called upon to pay the increased rate.

"I therefore recommend that this latter provision be modified, by providing that at least section 9 of the senate amendment to the bill, which is the section authorizing the commission to suspend the going into effect of increases in rates until after due investigation, shall take effect immediately after the passage of the act."

Bill Sent to Conference.

After the receipt of President Taft's message on the railroad bill, the final fight on the measure began in the house. It was as to whether the bill should be sent to conference or the senate amendments be accepted as a whole.

The bill was sent to conference. The action of the house in concurring to the senate amendments was immediately reported to the senate. The senate conferees named were Senators Elkins, Aldrich and Fostr. Speaker Cannon appointed Messrs. Mann, of Illinois; Wanger, of Pennsylvania, and Adamson, of Georgia, as the conferees on the part of the house.

GOOD NEWS OF A GREAT THING

That Has Become the Talk of Thousands.

There is death at the end of every life, but as we travel on toward the grave we hope to be blessed with good health, and when we have a friend who has suffered for years with some painful malady, it is good news, indeed, when we are told of that friend's complete recovery, and when we hear of the remedy that made the cure we are bound to have confidence in it. This is why Root Juice is so well spoken of over the country.

Mr. Sam Anderson, a well-known farmer living near Gas City, Ind., said; "I'll tell you, Root Juice is a great medicine. I suffered for years with rheumatism and stiff joints and when I awoke in the morning I could hardly raise myself from the bed. My feet and hands were sore, stiff and painful, more especially during rainy weather. I had a great deal of trouble with my back. Root Juice cured one of my neighbors of a bad stomach trouble, so I thought I would give it a trial, although my trouble was entirely different. I purchased a bottle of Root Juice and a 25 cent bottle of "Uze-It" Pain Oil: I rubbed my back and joints well with the oil and took Root Juice precisely as directed. I felt so much better after the first week that I bought six more bottles of the Juice, and also some of the liniment. In a few weeks every symptom of my trouble was gone. I now feel that the cure is permanent and am advising all my sick friends to try Root Juice."

Root Juice has proved its wonderful merit to hundreds of local people. For sale by People's drug store. $1 a bottle, or three bottles for $2.50.

The animal husbandry department of the Pennsylvania Agricultural college reports the case of a creamery manager who refused a graduate of the state dairy school a ten dollar a month advance in wages, hired a man at the lower figure, and on the 49,000 pounds of butter made during the ensuing months lost $869 as a result of a slump in the overrun from 19 to 13 per cent. This is a concrete illustration of the shortsighted economies practiced by many folks engaged in many enterprises. The lesson is so plain that it does not need pointing.

The artichoke, until a few years ago considered a troublesome perennial weed, hard to eradicate, is now viewed by some hog raisers as a valuable source of succulent feed, the hogs being turned into the field in the fall or the tubers dug and stored for winter use. The artichoke is handled much as are potatoes and may be planted up to the latter part of May in sections where rainfall or artificial water supply is available for their proper growth. They yield as high as 300 to 400 bushels of tubers per acre, which contain more protein and more fat than do potatoes.

While paris green has been considered a standby as an insecticide by orchardists for a number of years past, recent experience shows arsenate of lead to be superior in that it does not burn or injure fruit or foliage, is insoluble in water and adheres to the foliage better than does the paris green. There are several brands of commercial arsenate which are carefully made and reliable and which require no preparation further than working to a fine, creamy paste and mixing with water at the rate of from two to three pounds to fifty gallons of water. In twenty-five pound kegs the arsenate can be bought at about 13 cents per pound.

While the sod bound orchard may produce fruit of a superior color and make the work at harvest time a little cleaner, these are about the only advantages that can be claimed for the plan. The main disadvantages of the system are that it too often furnishes an easy excuse for turning the orchard lot into a pasture, that it consumes moisture and fertility that the trees sorely need, while it reduces the size of the fruit from a third to a half and provides a harbor for a multitude of insect pests which are thus able to propagate undisturbed. If a careful survey of the situation seems to show that there is more money in raising hay than there is in producing fruit, the trees would better be cut out and the hay or pasture idea given the right of way.

ONE GRANGE FARMER

Science and Practice In Farming. Methods Described.

An Interview With Mr. George T. Powell Concerning Newer Methods of Farming Employed at His Orchard Farm at Ghent, N. Y.

By J. W. DARROW.

A striking illustration of the value of scientific knowledge and its application is to be found at Orchard farm, a tract of close to 300 acres, owned by George T. Powell, a member of Chatham (N. Y.) grange, which lies in the foothills of the Berkshires and in the valley of the Hudson. In a recent visit to this farm the following facts were obtained in a general interview in connection with extended observations of the scientific methods that are inaugurated and adopted:

"What, in your opinion, is the greatest present need in farming?" Mr. Powell was asked.

"More knowledge of the business and its right application. There is altogether too limited knowledge of the soil on the part of those who are dependent for support from it. In some of the older parts of the world after more than 2,000 years of culture and production the soil is increasing in its yield of crops, while in our country in less than 100 years it is run out or fails to support those who have been living off of it, when many leave their farms and go to the village or city to find employment. It is these farms that can now be bought at prices varying from $10 to $25 an acre that look so attractive to the city man with a family who finds the present high cost of living, with no prospective advance in salary, oppressive and discouraging."

"What have been the steps taken in the improvement of the soil of Orchard farm?"

"More than twenty years ago we began to plant the present orchards of apple trees and have since continued until we now have 100 acres covered with about 10,000 trees. We soon discovered that the trees were not making satisfactory growth and that there was too much fruit of inferior quality. A systematic study of the soil was made, and it was believed to be poor in its physical condition, was deficient in vegetable matter humus, and steps were taken to change this condition. We began by giving the soil more tillage and by sowing crimson clover, which variety was selected because after cultivating the soil up to July 1 crimson clover, being an annual plant, would make a much more rapid growth the balance of the season than the common red clover. The first year the effort to get the clover to grow was a failure, but the next year the seed was sown again, and the growth, while better, was far from satisfactory. About this time a chemist in Germany was working upon methods for producing artificial bacteria to introduce into the soil for the greater nourishment of clover and other leguminous plants that are capable of taking the free nitrogen of the atmosphere and by the aid of the soil bacteria build up nodules freely upon their roots, which in their decomposition enrich the soil with the most important but most costly plant food element to purchase. The United States department took up the investigation and sent out the manufactured bacteria in cultures that could be diluted with which the seed is moistened and the soil thereby inoculated with the same to aid in getting a stronger and more rapid growth of clover. This principle has been extensively used, and as the result with much more thorough tillage, an important essential, the soil has become so thoroughly filled with these essential bacteria that everywhere the most luxuriant growth of clover is now obtained. This is plowed in annually, and the soil has been steadily regaining its lost humus and is now producing the most luxurious growth of trees that can be desired and fruit that equals in size that of the irrigated sections of the west. We consider that in twelve years of clover culture and tillage the soil has been improved 100 per cent.

"What fertilizer do you use and in what quantities?"

"According to the ages of the trees, we are applying from five pounds to forty-five pounds of nitrate of soda, Thomas' phosphate powder (basic slag) and sulphate of potash per tree in rows extending across an entire field, with a check row unfertilized for study and comparison. All other conditions—the clover, tillage, spraying and pruning—are the same."

"Can the eastern farmers successfully compete with the west in the raising of farm crops, live stock and fruit?"

"Yes, if they will grow alfalfa and raise their own grain and keep well bred cattle, sheep and hogs. It will pay to raise horses for eastern farmers at their present high value for good horses. At Orchard farm we are growing alfalfa with great success. We clean the land first of weeds, lime and fertilize the soil, inoculate the seed and get pure seed, all of which costs thought and effort to do, but it pays. The west has made great strides in apple culture and has steadily taken possession of the fancy apple trade in our eastern markets. At Orchard farm we have for years been propagating trees for special selection of scions and buds from typical trees of known quality for production. We are just coming into results which are most promising. We are producing Jonathan apples as large and fine, with equally beautiful color, as those from Oregon and other varieties equally large as those of the irrigated states of the west. With thorough tillage and clover culture for cover crops to be plowed in we can grow beautiful fruit that no drought will seriously injure. There are thousands of acres in New York and New England that can be bought for $20 to $40 an acre that will produce as fine looking and better apples than are grown on the land in the west costing $300 an acre for unimproved and $2,000 to $3,000 for bearing orchards."

"Have you carried on any experiments with a view to improving color of apples?"

"We are experimenting with basic slag, believing that we can bring out higher color in apples from its use. Practically all eastern soil will be benefited by application of lime, basic slag containing about 40 per cent of lime in its best form. This, with the phosphoric acid it supplies, is giving very high color to the apples in the experimental tests. We have already sold some of these apples in boxes for higher prices than any Oregon apples have brought thus far this season, thus proving that we can both grow as attractive apples and sell them for as high or higher prices than the west. Hood river apples in Oregon have sold for $2 and $2.50 a box f. o. b., while we have made some sales for $3 f. o. b. for the same varieties and in the same size boxes."

A GOOD SELF FEEDER.

One That Is Constructed at Home Preferred to Factory Product.

Herewith is shown the picture of one of the most successful self feeders the writer has seen. Many farmers object to the factory made self feeder because it is too narrow on the base and the galvanized iron with which it is covered serves to heat the contents, while the edges of the iron are almost sure to become loosened and wound the stock.

This is practically certain to occur in the case of such feeders as are made for hogs. Again, the flat topped self feeder is objectionable for the reason that it will not exclude water unless covered with metal, when it becomes open to the objection noted above.

The self feeder shown in the cut was made for cattle, but was set low enough so that the calves could have access to it. By its use very little grain is wasted, and what falls to the ground is picked up by the hogs. This particular self feeder was set in an open feed lot near a cattle shed in which a hay bag came close enough to replace the manger.

It could be set in the shed, however, if thought desirable. In these days of the scarcity of farm help it is the brain work that is put into such little accessories as this that counts and helps to solve the problems which confront the present day farmer.

CLEANSING MILK VESSELS.

After a Thorough Washing They Should Be Set In Sunshine.

When washing milk pails, pans, cans, churns, etc., first wash them out with cold or cool water, is the advice of a well known dairyman. It is much better if you wash them twice with cold water. Next wash in water as hot as the hands can bear in which there is soap or salsoda. Scald in boiling water and wipe with clean towels. Milk vessels in which milk remains for any length of time should be set in the sunshine to air. All milk vessels containing seams can be more thoroughly washed with a brush.

The separator parts should be washed and scalded and sunned the same a sthe milk pails. A sunny kitchen window is the best place to sun and air them. When washing milk vessels all rust should be removed from tinware vessels, as rust affords the very best of hiding places for germs. The outside of milk pails and cream cans should be kept as clean as the inside. The exterior of the separator should also be washed off after each using. Leave apart until the next milking time.

The churn should be washed and scalded. Keep the outside clean. Wash the strainer with a brush, using cold water first, then hot water. If by neglect the meshes of the strainer become closed you may readily clean it with dry salt and a stiff brush. If you use a strainer cloth first rinse in two cold waters, then wash in hot water and soap. Rinse in cold water and hang on the line to dry.

If the straining is attended to late in the evening, for the sake of convenience the strainer cloth may be hung on bars or on a line in the house. Cloths and towels used for washing milk vessels should be white and sweet, never sour and soiled. When there are quite a number of milk vessels to be washed the cloths and towels should not be used for any other purpose.

The Type For Good Breeders.

Straight, strong legs are a necessity under breeding sheep, and the pasterns must be strong, and, although this is more important with rams, it affects ewes to the extent that they may drop rams for breeding purposes. When the sheep has been examined for mutton form, constitution, legs and feet the fleece should be carefully looked through.

THE SWINEHERD

When Putting Hogs In Pasture.

In putting hogs in pasture do not cut off the entire grain ration at once.

Don't Build Pens Near the House.

Put hogpens a good distance from the house. They are neither good to see nor smell from the house.

Keep Sow While Teeth Are Good.

As long as her teeth are good do not sacrifice her, no matter how high the price of pork may go or how old she may be.

Market Pigs When "Ripe."

As soon as the pigs are in marketable condition—"ripe," as the butchers say—let them go. It does not pay to feed the animal after it is fit.

A Good Pasture Valuable.

Good clover pasture, pure water to drink and all the corn they will eat clean two or three times a day will prepare them quickly and economically for market.

Why Swine Become Stunted.

Many farmers neglect their swine in the hurry of summer work, and the result is the hogs become stunted. In the fall they have not made adequate growth, and, besides, stunted swine do not finish well.

A LIFELONG DREAM

By WILLARD BLAKEMAN

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

When I was eighteen the Wetmores were my most intimate friends. Clarence Wetmore and I were chums, and his sister Agatha, two years my junior, was a very pretty girl with a peachy complexion and a soft feminine voice. I was too much of a boy to think of marriage, but it occurred to me that when I was ready for that important step in a man's life Agatha Wetmore would suit me for a wife exactly.

I remember all the members of the family as they then were—Clarence, my own age; Agatha, sweet sixteen; Ben and Tom, aged respectively thirteen and ten, and two little girls, six and three. Every spot in the spacious grounds, every room, every nook in the house, is as familiar to me as it was then. The inmates have changed, but not the house. It stands today as it stood years agone, the same furniture, the same pictures on the walls, the same outlook from the windows.

Many was the romp I had with the Wetmore boys and girls, many a meal I enjoyed in the dining room, the south end of which was of glass and in winter the receptacle for tropical plants. There were orange and lemon and rubber trees and an endless variety of palms. At the other end was the broad fireplace in which we used to burn cord wood at its full length and on cool evenings sit before it with no light except that thrown out by the blazing logs. In summer there was the broad piazza, forming a complete walk around the house. On it were rugs and hammocks and tables with books and magazines on them.

I have little doubt that had I remained in the proximity of the Wetmores Agatha and I would have made a match. But my career called me elsewhere. The Wetmore children grew to manhood and womanhood. Clarence married and when the old folks died occupied the house with his wife and a new brood of children. There had been no open lovemaking between me and Agatha, but in my distant home I was constantly looking forward to the day when, having achieved a moderate success, I might return and tell her that I had been waiting for her. But year after year passed, and fortune never knocked at my door. A decade was added to my age, then another decaded. My income had grown somewhat, but my necessities had grown also. Wisdom, or what I considered wisdom, had come to me and told me that although loneliness was approaching with age the wherewithal to support a family was still beyond my grasp. I heard of Agatha Wetmore occasionally and knew that she was not married. I was often tempted to write her and ask if she would share my lot as it was, but this seemed too cold a method of procedure for a love affair. No, I would wait till I could join her, spend some time near the old place where she was living with her brother's family and do my courting as I had always intended.

All this time the years were slipping away. My hair was whitening, and I was obliged to choose between wearing a gray beard and exposing a wrinkled neck. Sometimes when looking in a mirror I would realize that I was changing, but the slipping from youth to age was so gradual that I did not realize it. As for Agatha, while I could not but remember that she must have changed, I still thought of her as a young girl.

Suddenly in my old age I made a fortune. It was too late for the union of two youngsters with the expectation of bringing up a family, but Agatha and I might still be a comfort to each other in our decline. As soon as I could get away I took a train to go to her, resolved to ask her to be my companion to share my fortune for what remained of life to either of us. During the journey I endeavored to fix my mind upon her as she must be after so many years. It was impossible that I could call up any vision of her changed appearance. Only the sweet face of a young girl would come to me.

I called on Clarence Wetmore at his office in the city. I had seen him at intervals and was not especially surprised at his aged appearance. His friendship was as warm as ever, and he insisted on my going right out to dinner with him. I consented, and we took a suburban train together.

As I have said, the place was the same. A new brood of children had sprung up, some of whom were starting broods of their own. Clarence was a grandfather. I was introduced to those who were at home, and we went into dinner. Two old women were at the table, to both of whom I was introduced, but did not hear their names. One of them was bent and wrinkled. She sat next to me, but I did not feel like talking to her. I was looking for Agatha. I had been told that she was in the house and expected every moment to see her enter the room. I pictured her as a pleasant looking middle aged lady, though the girlish face insisted on thrusting itself between me and the image I had called up.

But Agatha did not come. Before leaving I asked for her.

"Agatha! Why, the lady beside you was Agatha."

I shuddered. Going out to the carriage, I was driven to the train. The next day I told Clarence that I had been suddenly called back to my distant home. The dream of my lifetime had ended. Nevertheless I treasure in my heart the image of Agatha as a girl.

"LIKE BEGETS LIKE."

Nope, "you can't squeeze blood out of a turnip," even in a hencoop.

Here, as elsewhere, from nit, nit, from fit, fit, "like begets like."

Most poultry raisers admire pretty plumage, but, oh, you pounds of fancy flesh and dandy big eggs! Yet so many forget that "like begets like." "Chuckens is jist chuckins" with them.

But can weak stock give fertile eggs and strong chicks or spindly, undersized roosters and small skinny hens beget big, plump market chickens or drone hens of nonlaying strain give pullets that smash winter egg records? Many begin with something and inbreed to nothing. Inbreeding not only reduces vitality, but cuts down the size, and the retrograde stock becomes a bunch of bone and feathers. The turkey has been inbred out of sight. The Barred Rock in many places has become only a semblance of its former self. To breed right there must be particular selection of nonclosely related stock for a purpose or dual purpose, selection to perpetuate the qualities desired, and this care must be continuous.

Many mate brother and sister. This is a step to disaster.

Cockerel and pullet matings are not always wise. Cocks and hens, cocks and pullets, cockerels and hens are best.

Note our pictures to illustrate what selection will do. The Wyandotte cock, two years old, weighs ten pounds, one and a half pounds over standard. The hen, two years old, weighs ten pounds, two and a half pounds overweight. Egg record 172 eggs per year, two pounds two ounces to dozen. They were bred from big laying stock. The chicks from this mating weigh three and a half ounces at hatching, much above the average.

WYANDOTTE HEN, TWO AND A HALF POUNDS OVER STANDARD.

The majority believe that size comes from the dam, shape from the sire, cockerel characteristics from the mother and pullet qualities from the father.

For best results breed from big, vigorous stock sprung from heavy laying ancestry on both sides.

DON'TS.

Don't let high, rank weeds form thickets where chicks may be lost or be caught by Skunk, Weasel & Co.

Don't breed from hens that lay only in the warm, cheap season unless you are merely raising meat.

Don't keep that old rooster over simply out of sentiment. If you "can't bear to eat him" the preacher will relieve your embarrassment and perhaps save you a case of indigestion.

Don't kill chickens with a hatchet that can't cut butter. The glancing blow may whack your toe.

Don't be fooled by your competitor's bluff that your show birds aren't up to snuff. You'll both know at the show.

After testing several methods of making clover hay Professor Roberts of the Cornell (N. Y.) experiment station recommends the following procedure as most satisfactory: He cuts the crop when moderately ripe and only during those hours of the day when the dew is off. The hay cut one day is left until the following day and while hot is put in small bunches and left until the next morning, when they are turned lightly and carefully and loaded with as little shaking as possible and mowed away, being salted at the rate of three pounds per ton as unloaded.
